News of South Richmond

With just about enough room to seat half of the scholars, the school of Oak Grove and Swansboro will open to-morrow morning. The old scholars will be assigned their places on the first day, while the new ones are to report Tuesday morning.

In Oak Grove the conditions remain about the same as last term. The regular school will be used, and the outbuildings which were hired last year to seat the overflow will again be utilized. If necessary additional room in a deserted store will be secured. Swansboro, while in an equally crowded condition, is better off when it comes to outside accommodations. The Weatherford Memorial Church has again generously offered the use of the church basement, although the children last year did considerable damage to the church furniture. Miss Beattie Vaden will again have charge of the school.

Southsiders Will Exhibit.

Among the many shows that will be seen along the Midway at the State Fair this week are two which originated in South Richmond and will have Southsiders acting in every capacity from the ballyhoo to the chief performer. The show that will probably draw the largest crowd will be the Brockwell babies, one fourteen months old, weighing eighty-nine pounds, and the other, five years old, weighing 135. These children are familiar sights in the city as they ride around town with their parents. Another show will be a troupe of trained goats, which were raised in South Richmond. The goats are able performers, and can do about everything attempted in an animal show. This will be their first appearance in public, with the exception of a short time in a local vaudeville house.

Special Meeting of Supervisors.

For the purpose of clearing up some of the unfinished business which has accumulated recently, the Chesterfield Board of Supervisors will hold a special meeting to-morrow morning at Chesterfield Courthouse. Among the things to come up for consideration is the plans for the overhauling of the sewerage system of the city. Several persons have been killed at that point, and the crossing has been ordered.

Did Not Award Contract.

Contrary to their plans the school trustees of the Manchester district yesterday failed to award the contract for the construction of the new school houses for Oak Grove and Swansboro. The bids were submitted several weeks ago with the understanding that they would be opened on October 5. Several bidders were on hand, but went away disappointed.

Church Nearly Complete.

Fine progress is being made on the Decatur Street Methodist Church, and it will probably be ready for occupancy within a month. The building proper has been completed, and all that now remains to be done is to put in the floors and finish the interior. When the building is completed it will make one of the handsomest buildings on the Southside.

Red Men to Confer Degrees.

Several candidates will have the adoption degree conferred on them to-morrow night by the Indiana Tribe of Red Men. The tribe will gather at their hunting grounds in Tony's Hall, promptly at 8 o'clock. As this is the first meeting of the new quarter a large crowd is expected.

At Bathing Street Church.

Rev. James W. Durham, pastor of the Bathing Street Baptist Church, has selected as his subject for this morning, "Why the Prodigal Went Wrong." The evening subject is "Religion or the Mountain and the Valley." There will be baptism at the evening service.

The annual rally day service will be held this morning by the Sunday school. The room has been decorated with American flags, and each class has prepared some unique feature for the program.

In Honor of Miss Bryant.

A miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss

Miss Bryant, of Richmond, who will next

Wednesday become the bride of Clarence Paul, was given Friday evening at the home of Miss Beattie Vaden on Porter Street. The house was tastefully decorated in golden red and autumnal plants, and an enjoyable evening was spent by all.

Personal Mention.

Miss Emma Hester, of Roanoke, is the guest of Mrs. George Paul.

E. R. Gill, of New Orleans, who has been visiting S. H. Bentley, has returned home.

George Paul, Jr., a student at Washington and Lee University, and Raymond Paul, of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, will return home to-morrow to attend the marriage of their brother, Clarence Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Mortimer, of Erie,

Mich., who have been the guests of H. C.

Beattie, have returned home.

EUGENE IN AGAIN

After Being Placed on Probation He

Is Locked Up for Fighting.

Eugene Payne, colored, who was released from the City Jail Friday, was placed on the probation list yesterday morning by Police Justice Crutchfield, for being drunk and disorderly. Last night about 10 o'clock he was arrested in Broad Street at Brook Avenue, for being drunk, disorderly and fighting.

How much time Eugene has spent in the City Jail is a matter of speculation, but it is safe to say that he is quarantined with City Sergeant Satterfield for eleven of the twelve months. In Police Court yesterday he was told that the next time he appeared he would be sent to the roads.

"I'm going to the roads this time," he said last night when he was locked up in the Second Police Station.

EIGHTH STREET OPENED

Full Use of Thoroughfare Now Permitted by Chief Werner.

Upon assurance that the thoroughfare was safe for traffic, Chief of Police Werner last night authorized the full use of Eighth Street, which has been partially closed since last Monday, when there was a fatal cave-in at the corner of Grace, costing the lives of four negro laborers.

Since Tuesday street cars have been permitted to use the tracks on the west side of the street, but for fear of causing a further disaster the east side was barricaded.

When he was satisfied that there was no further danger, Major Werner permitted the Virginia Railway and Power Company to resume the use of its northbound tracks. The first car passed through at 8:37 o'clock.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Negro Boy May Die From Bullet Wound

in His Abdomen.

William Gwathmey, colored, sixteen years old, was probably fatally wounded last night when he accidentally discharged a revolver while exhibiting it to a companion at his home, 807 North Thirty-first Street.

Upon examination by Dr. H. T. Hawkins, City Hospital ambulance surgeon, who responded to an emergency call, it was found that the bullet had entered the young negro's abdomen. He was hurried to the hospital and the bullet immediately removed. It was said that his condition was serious.

The weapon which Gwathmey was showing his friend was of .32 calibre, and of an old type. How he came into possession of the weapon was not known.

DIN OF CHEERS FOR BRYAN AND WILSON

Great Crowds Surround Them in Effort to Shake Their Hands.

MEETING OF FAMOUS LEADERS

Candidate Gives Commoner All Credit for "Setting His Party Free."

Lincoln, Neb., October 6.—"Hello, Mr. Bryan, hello, Mr. Bryan."

"Welcome, welcome, Governor."

These words and a cordial hand-shake brought together for the first time since the national campaign opened, the presidential nominee of the Democratic party and the man who three times was the standard-bearer of the same party.

As the Governor stepped from the end of his private car almost into the arms of Mr. Bryan, there was a din of cheers. Governor Wilson and Mr. Bryan finally made their way to a waiting automobile and to an accompaniment of the blowing of factory whistles, the tooting of automobile horns and the music of bands, they rode together through crowds which lined the streets for blocks. There were cries of "Bryan and Wilson" and "Wilson and Bryan."

Mr. Bryan himself returned only today from a six weeks' speaking tour through the West in the interest of the national Democratic ticket. As the crowds pressed around the automobile it was with difficulty that the street parade began. The crush to shake hands with Governor Wilson blocked the movement of the machine, and many wanted to shake hands with Mr. Bryan, too. Governor Wilson sat at first beside Mr. Bryan, but the latter suggested that the Governor stand up in the machine throughout the parade. Mr. Bryan sat inconspicuously behind him, his face wreathed in smiles as Governor Wilson was kept busy waving his hat in acknowledgment of the cheers of the crowds.

"This is great," said the Governor, as he turned toward Mr. Bryan frequently. "Fine, fine" was Mr. Bryan's reply.

Democrats of every faction in Nebraska harmonized in the welcome to him. Senator Hitchcock, Mayor Delaham, of Omaha, and others, who opposed the nomination of Governor Wilson at Baltimore took part in the general demonstration.

Governor Wilson and Mr. Bryan spoke at a banquet of the Democratic State committee. Governor Wilson thanked Mr. Bryan publicly for the support he gave him at Baltimore and Mr. Bryan in turn appealed to the Democracy "to do for Wilson twice as much as they ever did for Bryan."

"I want to express," said Governor Wilson, "on this, the first opportunity I have had since getting into Lincoln, the very deep pleasure it gives me to find myself beside Mr. Bryan."

We are free to serve the people of the United States and, in my opinion, it was Mr. Bryan that set us free. I think no one can have followed the course of events in that extraordinary convention at Baltimore without sharing in that opinion."

Mr. Bryan gave an ovation when he came to speak. "I'm proud of the leader we have chosen," said he. "I'm glad he has shown that scholarship need not be lonely. I'm glad he illustrates, as did Jefferson, that the educated man need not be separated in sympathy from the man less educated. In his presence, and in yours, I want to express my deep gratitude to him for the mastery in which he has led our friends in this campaign."

Mr. Bryan added that election night, when the Governor and Mrs. Wilson read the returns, there will be a man and wife out at Fairview (Mr. Bryan's home) just as happy and rejoiced. He declared that it was the completion of a fight begun eighteen years ago for progressive principles.

Immediately after the banquet Mr. Bryan accompanied the Governor to the chief meeting of the evening at the auditorium, where an immense crowd was packed indoors as well as out. It was arranged to have the Governor address the overflow crowd also.

Inspector Faurot had just begun the examination of Davidson at police headquarters when he received word from District Attorney Whitman to suspend it. It was then that the district attorney would be at police headquarters in a short time to do the questioning of the prisoner himself.

Davidson's story by this time, it was substantially the same as already told.

Assistant District Attorney Minton took to police headquarters at 11 o'clock, and a few minutes later District Attorney Whitman came in. He was stopped by the reporters, who asked him whether he thought the death of Zellig, who was to be a witness in the Lieutenant Becker trial, which starts Monday, will delay or inconvenience the trial.

Mr. Whitman said he didn't know yet. Just how important Zellig would have been to the prosecution the district attorney would not say.

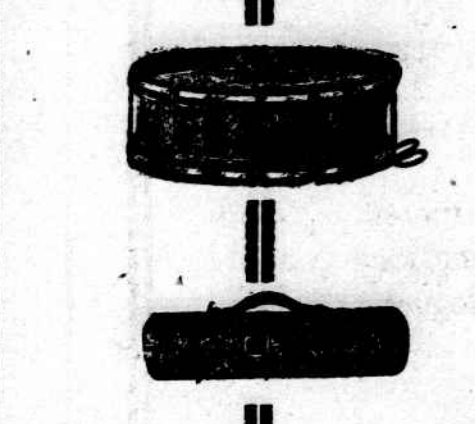

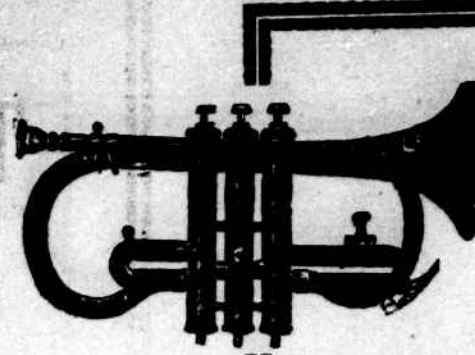

When the dead man's clothes were searched at the morgue the keeper found in the upper right hand pocket four letters written in pencil and badly blood-stained. They were not in envelopes. One of them was dated from the Tombs October 3. The signatures to the four were Frank Citroff, Lefty Louis, Harry and Whitey. The letter dated from the Tombs was addressed to "Dear Friend Zell" and said among other things:

"Things look fine. I read your letter and Louis and myself were tickled to death to read it. We have a hell of a time here, old boy, ourselves. Do nothing but fool and kid one another. Gee, did you see about Louis in to-day's Journal? We laughed ourselves sick over it. Well, Zell, take care of yourself, and I know you are the one who can do that, so will close with regards and best wishes to yourself and wife from your true friend, 'HARRY'."

"Regards and best wishes from W. and F. Answer as soon as possible, if you have time."

Another letter dated from the Tombs prison on October 3, addressed to "Friend Jack," says in part:

"I received that letter this afternoon, and you can imagine how I felt when I read it. For I know everything you write comes from the depths of your heart. Well, Jack, I want you to stop worrying about us, as we have everything that we wish for, and are having the best of time up here. We are only up here on a short vacation to give us a good rest, and fatten us up. I wish to a row in a restaurant at either 74 or 76 Second Avenue and had punched a man there so that the man was bruised in a way that resembled the bruises which the prisoner displayed to-night as proof that Zellig had beaten and robbed him.

ZELIG, GANGSTER, HIMSELF A VICTIM

The man beaten by Zellig, according to the second story heard, left the restaurant threatening vengeance upon Zellig. Not long after this, so the police heard from friends of Zellig, a telephone message came to the restaurant for Zellig, and the gang leader, talking at the restaurant telephone, announced that some one had just asked him to come to Fourteenth Street and Second Avenue on a "business matter."

Zellig, his friends tell the police, left the restaurant at once and jumped on a car that brought him up to the corner where he was murdered. Also, say the informants, a man who had seen Zellig leave the restaurant followed him and jumped on a car running north less than a block behind the car Zellig had taken. The supposition of these friends of Zellig is that the gang leader was murdered because he had robbed Davidson during the afternoon, but that Davidson was the man who had thumped in the face in the restaurant at 7 o'clock, and that the shooting therefore merely was a "come back" by Davidson for this beating.

Inspector Faurot had just begun the examination of Davidson at police headquarters when he received word from District Attorney Whitman to suspend it. It was then that the district attorney would be at police headquarters in a short time to do the questioning of the prisoner himself.

Davidson's story by this time, it was substantially the same as already told.

you would thank Hannah for the kindness she has shown us by sending the bundles, for we know what a job she must have to pack up four big bundles for us four big brutes."

The letter closed with best regards to "Joey and your wife," and also with regards to "Joey and your wife" from "Frank, Louis and Gyp."

Former Magistrate Charles F. G. Wahl, at his home to-night, was told that Zellig, one of his clients, had been murdered. Mr. Wahl, in a statement, said he could not, without an opportunity to talk to the district attorney and the police, express an opinion as to whether or not the murder was an outgrowth of the prosecutions in the Rosenthal case.

"Zellig," he added, "was to be used as the main witness against Policemen White and Steiner, of Becker's old staff, the two indicted for oppression and perjury."

"SPOTS" BURIED NEAR DR. MONCURE

Servant Laid to Rest in Family

Burying Ground Where

Master Sleeps.

In the presence of a group of lifelong friends, drawn from the clergy and from the secret order in which he had attained high degree, the body of Rev. John Moncure D. D., was yesterday laid to rest in the family burying ground on the old estate at "Somerset," Stafford County.

In a grave close by was buried the body of the negro "Spots," for whom the minister gave up his life in last Thursday's accident.

To the silent witnesses of the last rites the scene bore down with special sadness. The element of unforeseen tragedy was blended with the spirit of sacrifice which marked Dr. Moncure's unavailing struggle for the life of a fellow human being, lending to the occasion an added note of solemnity.

More than one recalled that the negro sleeping by the side of his white master was a former convict in the penitentiary, who had been rescued by the preacher, and turned into useful life.

To render his divorce from his former criminal life more complete, the negro had never resumed his name. As "Spots" he lived, and as "Spots" he died.

Clergymen Attend.

A number of clergymen of the Episcopal Church, accompanied by a body of Masons, left the city yesterday afternoon over the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad and drove over to the old mansion. The funeral services were held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon under the direction of Bishop R. A. Robson. Bishop Robson was assisted by Rev. J. Y. Downman, D. D.; J. Gravatt, D. D.; J. W. Morris, D. D.; Martin Johnson, A. V. Colston, R. A. Goodwin, E. L. Goodwin, David Lewis, H. W. Sublett, E. E. Cogswold, and Victor Bell and Charles E. Somers, of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, colored.

The Masonic services at the grave were conducted by Amity Lodge, No. 74, A. F. & A. M., of which Dr. Moncure was senior deacon. The following officers officiated: John Tyler, worshipful master; E. T. Jenkins, senior warden; Charles A. Nesbitt, secretary (207); John F. Mayer (207), treasurer; W. Gray Watson (51), senior deacon; F. St. George Cooke (510), junior deacon; W. E. Lyman (9), and F. C. Henniger (139), stewards; John S. Smith (36), tier, and Hay T. Thornton (51), marshal.

Dr. Moncure was one of the eleven thirty-third degree Masons in the State. John F. Mayer, Inspector-general, and Charles A. Nesbitt, recorder, F. T. Sutton, J. J. Sutton, C. H. Rudd and Hay T. Thornton, all carrying the same degree, were present.

The representation of the attending physician that the life of Dr. Brown was endangered by the noise of passing vehicles, the Mayor hastily signed the consent.

Although the new St. James Episcopal Church is in process of erection on the other corner of Birch and Franklin Streets, the closing of this thoroughfare with the construction of the building operation, the contractor was consulted before the order was issued, and said that all business would be transferred to the alley behind the new building and Birch Street left free.

Organ Recital at Monumental.

The organ recital which have proved so popular at Monumental Church will be resumed to-day following the 4 o'clock service. These recitals are given on the first Sunday afternoon in each month throughout the winter, and every one is given a cordial invitation to attend. To-day's program will be composed of very recent European publications. It is as follows:

Grand Chœur Symphonique, Fauré; Massé; Arcaïde, Serenata, Ed. Leman; Adagio in Scotch Style, Alex. Gullman; Monologue (Pastorale), David Clegg; Melody in B flat, John E. Campbell; Organ Trumpets (March), Klara.

His SPERMATIC SHIELD TRUSS, as used and approved by the U. S. Government, and the Case of Russia, will relieve any case of rupture perfectly, affording immediate relief, and closes the opening in a short time on the average case. It produces results without surgery or harmful injections, and is guaranteed to hold any rupture or money refunded.
